

About QC Kinetix (Sandy Springs)

One of the most common problems associated with lower back pain is that it can be hard to know when to seek medical attention. Some conditions, such as scoliosis or herniated discs, require professional intervention. However, many other conditions can be treated without surgery or medication. QC Kinetix (Sandy Springs) wants to ensure people get the treatment they need by guiding them back to a much higher quality of life. Our goal is to restore the use of the lower back muscles while mitigating any troublesome symptoms. Our back Specialists in Sandy Springs use non-surgical and minimally invasive procedures to make these changes possible. We use a range of regenerative practices for low back pain conditions. These processes facilitate natural recovery compared to traditional or surgical interventions. While each technique is distinct, they take advantage of the body's rehabilitation mechanisms. Frequently, patients with low back pain problems can avoid surgery and experience a much higher quality of life.
